BRIDGET KEREVAN,

BY ENNA DUVAL.

"I will tell you. I have heard a grave divine say that God has two dwellings, one in heaven and the other in a meek and thankful heart; which Almighty God grant to me and to my honest scholar.'—ISAAK WALTON.

"How did you find them all at home, Bridget?"

"Hearty, ma'am, thank you;" and the girl moved briskly about the room.

She was my chambermaid, and although she had only lived with me a short time, I felt very much attached to her, for she was so kind, industrious and honest. Soon after she came to us I was seized with a painful illness, and during it she nursed me with the tenderness of a sister; often, when the spasms of acute pain would shake my feeble frame, I had seen large tears standing in her full, round eyes.

As she assisted me in undressing, I observed that she was not in her usual spirits, and when she handed me my dressing gown, I saw that her hands trembled. But she patiently went through every little duty, although I could well see that she was suffering from some hidden trouble. When I sat down to my reading, she left me to prepare for me some tea—for dear reader, I am a true old maid, and love my cup of tea, as well as I love my existence, almost.

Presently she re-entered, and rolling a little tea-pot beside my chair, she placed on it the waiter, and poured out my tea. Just then I heard the heavy breathing of my dear aunt Mary, who was asleep in the adjoining room.

"Close the door of aunt Mary's room, my good Bridget," I said; 'and while I drink my tea, and eat this nice piece of toast you have made me, come and tell me something about Ireland.'

I knew this would please her, for often had she talked to me at night, when I would be undressing, about the glens and vales of beautiful, song famed Coleraine; and the fairies, with their round rings in the grass. She had never seen a fairy her own self, but 'Elsie the child' her sister had, and the 'little Lady,' as she called the fairy, had pinched the poor, 'crayen Elsie.'

Then again on Sunday, or holyday nights, she would tell me how, when a child, she had wished to be a nun, and that she would go out in the dark, pitch night, and kneel on the ground in the middle of the garden, and ask the good Virgin and the Saints to pray for her—for Bridget has always been a religious girl.

Then she had actually heard the Banshee cry. It came wailing round the house when her father died; and she had heard it a week before his death, when he was hale and hearty. She had heard it at night-fall one evening when she was crossing the glen below their cottage, as she was coming from Coleraine, where she had been spending the day with her grandmother. It commenced 'low and mournful like' in the bushes beside her, and then ranged around the hills, swelling out louder and louder, until it ceased behind the cottage. As she would dwell on this, my fancy would picture to me the enthusiastic imaginative Irish girl, standing with lips apart, listening to the mournful wailing night wind, which her after troubles shaped into the sad poetical Banshee; and if I had had the skill of an artist, I would have made a lovely sketch, I am sure; for so plainly did her descriptions bring before me her figure and the surrounding landscape, lightened with the warm hue of the lingering twilight so peculiar to Ireland.

Bridget sat down on the rug beside me, and when we went to bed that night, good reader, it was later than unsuspecting aunt Mary imagined; but I had heard all Bridget's troubles, had soothed and comforted her, had read her lover's last letter to her—for she had a lover—what girl has not?—and sent her to bed with a heart considerably lighter than when, with aching head but patient fingers, she had prepared my nice night meal.

Bridget's father, Dermot Kerevan, was a Scotchman by birth, but of Irish parentage His father had settled in Glasgow, and there did Dermot spend his early years, and obtained thriftiness and steadiness, qualities not often found in an Irishman. Dermot was early apprenticed to a gardner, and when he was out of his term of service, his master recommended him to an Irish gentleman, who wanted a gardner for his place, "The Firs," at Coleraine. There Dermot came, and it was not long before he brought home to his pretty gardner's cottage, the beauty of Coleraine, Grace Mullen, who he had persuaded to be his 'bonnie wife,' as he called her, and sweeter domestic pictures I have never heard described either in tale or poem, than my good Bridget would sketch in her little stories of their home, during her fathers's life. But this blessed happiness could not last forever. One fine spring day poor Dermot was brought home from the garden, up at 'the great house,' on a litter nearly dead. He had fallen from a high tree while lopping off a branch. He lingered only a few hours,—leaving the lonely widow with her 'four children,' to battle with life alone.

Bridget was the eldest, and she was only twelve. Then there was Grace and Elsie, and little Jinny, the baby, to be cared for.—Bridget was sent to her uncle's at Glasgow town, and the grandmother of Grace Kerevan gave the shelter of her poor roof to the rest of them. Widow Kerevan opened a little shop in her grandmother's front room, and did 'bits of work for the people all around Coleraine,' as Bridget expressed it.

A year after the kind, loving father's death, home came Bridget from Glasgow town. Her uncle, the rich distiller, was enraged at her, for she had told his wife that she had rather starve in Ireland than go to the meeting house all day Sunday, and sit straight up at her sewing and knitting the rest of the week. Poor girl! the strict, rigid habits of her uncle's thrifty Scotch wife had driven her almost frantic. She, who had roamed at will over hill and glen, and who had never been bound down to any duty. The domestic affairs of her own home had always been soon dispensed with, and she had spent most of her time rambling through the forest, or by the stream-side, or playing with Gracey, Elsie, and the baby, chasing their shadows on the grassy hill side; then how could she bear the straight-lacee notions and rules of her notable Scotch aunt? Not at all, and she told her so; and they sent her home to the starvation her aunt had often taunted her with, holding it in perspective, when she would be rebellious.

The mother, grandmother and children had all crowded around her. Grace Kerevan held her child from whom she had been so long parted, close to her bosom, and sobbed with joy.

"And so," said the old grandmother, 'the 'Scotch queen, 'as poor Dermot used to say, told ye we starved here? Never mind, darlint, you shall always have a p'raty even if we all do without.'

Poor Bridget worked early and late for the farmer's wives, but she only made a 'small trifle,' as she said, and sometimes they were so poor that they had scarcely a potato apiece in the house.

"And did you ever wish yourself back in Glasgow town, Bridget?" I inquired.

"Niver, ma'am;" was the girl's energetic answer; and I do not believe she ever did, for the genial light of home-love shone in her poor, Irish home, for which her little affectionate heart had pined, under the wealthier but cold roof of her uncle.

"Then I came to Ameriky."

"But, Bridget, how came you to think of America?"

"Och, the girls all around talked about Ameriky, and my aunt's cousin's husband's sister writ home a letter about her making sich a power of money. Well, I talked to mother about it, and she cried, and so did grandmother, and they asked where I'd get the four pound to pay my passage with. That kept me quiet a bit, for I'd niver seen so big a heap of money. But one day, when I was shaking up grandmother's bed, I felt a great big lump in it, that was sewed up in the straw, and I dragged it out, and it was an old stocking with money tied in it. I ran screamin' with joy to mother. But och, how she cried and grandmother scolded. Then I cried too, and grandmother came and hugged me, and told me to give over cryin,' that there was the money if I wanted it. She said she had hid it away in the bed, years agone, to keep off the dark day. Then I cried; 'grandmother, let me go' till Ameriky, and I'll send ye so much gold that I'll keep the dark day away forever.'

Then mother said, 'let the girl go, for sure she's had light given her, and she knows better than us.'

"Did you not feel a little sorry, Bridget, when they gave up at last?" I asked.

THE POPULAR CYCLOPEDIA OR MODERN DOMESTIC MEDICINE

BY KEITH IMRAY, M. D.

Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians, and Licentiate of the Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh.

AMERICAN EDITION.

One large Octavo Volume, substantially bound.

THIS work presents a concise but clear view of the predisposing causes, premonitory signs, and distinguishing symptoms of disease, with the methods of cure recommended by the most eminent physicians.

The best modes of employing the medicines in general use are faithfully described; and the most approved rules for regulating diet and regimen during the periods of disease and convalescence, are amply furnished.

The art of Preserving Health, embracing special Treatises on Diet, Air, Temperance, Bathing, Clothing, and Exercise, is fully considered.

The publishers of the American edition have introduced Dr. Imray's work with short, illustrated, very complete sketches of Anatomy, Physiology and Surgery; and with directions for the domestic management of the sick, the preparation of their food, and the economy of the sick room, &c. They have also annexed a comprehensive MOTHER'S MEDICAL GUIDE, containing directions for the preservation of health during pregnancy, rules for managing the lying-in-room, and the treatment of infants, including air, clothing, exercise, &c. Also, a large number of valuable prescriptions, arranged for ready application; and a very full classified table of medicines, exhibiting their medicinal properties, doses and uses.

The Index is unusually complete, making the whole a most perfect and valuable work for families.

It can confidently be recommended to physicians and apothecaries, as well as to the public, as a book that will be found singularly convenient for ready reference.

Agents are wanted to circulate the above work. Several counties in Wisconsin not yet occupied. Address

S. M. BOOTH, : : : : : : : : EDITOR.

MILWAUKEE:

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, OCT. 22.

For Congress—1st District,

CHARLES DURKEE.

KEEP IT BEFORE THE PEOPLE,

THAT

ANDREW E. ELMORE

Voted Against the Right of Foreign-born Residents to Vote in electing Delegates to the State Convention, and on the question of forming a State Constitution.

MR. DURKEE

Will address the citizens of Milwaukee, at

MILITARY HALL, SATURDAY EVE'G,

October 26, at 6 1-2 o'clock.

Come and hear your faithful Representative.

MR. DURKEE'S PROGRESS.

At East Troy—a correspondent writes us—Mr. DURKEE had a most enthusiastic meeting. He has spoken nine times in Walworth County, to large and delighted audiences.

Last night, he spoke, at Waukesha, to a great crowd of people, packing the Court House to overflowing. His remarks were most enthusiastically cheered. Strong Resolutions were passed condemning the Fugitive Slave Law, and approving the course of our Representatives and Senators in Congress, and also the course of Chase, Hale, Seward, and others who have been true to Freedom. Our friends put down Waukesha County good for 1,000 majority for Durkee. Roll on the ball!

IRISHMEN!

Read the Address of your countrymen at Kenosha. They are his neighbors, and know him. He has been their friend. Hear their testimony:

"Almost every Irishman in this City has been at one time or another indebted to his kindness. He has encouraged them to stop here, and both by acts and advice he has always been their consistent friend, to which they are all willing to bear testimony."

This is the man presented for the suffrages of the people of this District. Will you not vote for him?

☞ The Whig Convention, on Saturday, decided to make no nomination for Congress. So general and strong was the feeling of the people in favor of Mr Durkee, the Independent candidate, that they regarded it as one of those cases, in which party feelings should give way to the popular will, and the best interests of the whole District. It would be a glory to Wisconsin to discard all party feelings and prejudices, and, standing on her professed principles, and sustaining the position of her true men, return, by an overwhelming vote, her present able, faithful and incorruptible delegation to the Thirty-Second Congress. Durkee and Doty are as sure to be chosen as the sun is to rise, on the 5th of November. And all accounts, which reach us from the 2d District, indicate that Mr. Cole will also be re-elected. Free Soilers tell us that Mr. Cole has been tried in the furnace, and proved true to Freedom, and they are not going to exchange a certainty for an uncertainty; that Mr. Eastman, for aught they know, may follow in the footsteps of the great mass of his Democratic brethren from the Free States, and that they are not willing to swap off the certainty of good deeds, for the empty sound of good professions.

WHIG COUNTY NOMINATIONS.—Jackson Tibbitts, of the town of Milwaukee, for Sheriff; Frederick Wardner, for Register; Priam B. Hill, for Clerk of Court; H. S. Orton, for District Attorney; J. B. Zander, for Coroner; and W. T. Trowbridge, for Surveyor. I. A. Lapham, of the 2d Ward, for Senator. The above is a strong ticket.

Our County Convention, next Saturday, will need to act wisely to present a better ticket. Mr. Lapham is a most worthy man.

THE BLOODHOUND LAW.

The opponents of the Slave-Catching Law held a great meeting at Worcester, Massachusetts, and

Resolved, That as God is our helper, we will not suffer any person charged with being a fugitive from labor, to be taken from among us, and to this resolve we pledge our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

A committee of vigilance of forty persons was appointed to keep a look out for the appearance of slave-catchers, who are to be requested as soon as known, to leave the city forthwith.

At Springfield, Mass., they

Resolved, That we here pledge ourselves to our fellow citizens to stand by each other in determined resistance to this law, and to fugitives from the South to protect them from their pursuers, and we will, if necessary, suffer the consequences.

A vigilance committee of fifteen, and a finance committee of five, were appointed. And it was voted, that alarm be given by ringing of the bells, whenever an attempt may be made to arrest a fugitive.

The slave-hunter will find no rest for the sole of his foot in the Old Bay State.

To the Adopted Irish Citizens of the First Congressional District.

We, the undersigned, adopted citizens of Irish birth, and residents of Kenosha County, feel it a duty we owe our countrymen in this Congressional District, to call their serious attention to the public services and private virtues of Charles Durkee, now a candidate for Congress in this District. Every man who reads the proceedings of the House of Representatives, knows that Mr. Durkee was always at his post working incessantly for some really good measure, and never absent or silent when anything that could lessen the burden of taxation was introduced. He is essentially the People's Representative,—a Democrat in its most literal sense. When he speaks, you may be sure it is on some important question that concerns the interests of the working classes, recommending Congress to encourage the emigration of foreigners to this country, or bringing in his Report on Cheap Postage, which alone should entitle him to the votes of our countrymen, who, more than all, would be benefited by a measure which would diminish the present exorbitant rates of foreign postage. You may be told by men styling themselves Democrats, that you must not vote for Mr. Durkee, because he is not the regular nominee of the party. In the name of Heaven, look coolly into the reasons assigned by these mock Democrats for setting him aside. He is, they say, a Land Reformer; he wishes to give the public domain to the people; he desires to put an end to land speculation by rich capitalists; he strives that every poor man shall have a farm of his own; he is the friend of the working man, and behold his greatest crime is, that he is favorable to the emancipation of the negro. Will we, Irishmen, who have just escaped the lash of the Saxon held over our heads for 700 years, endorse the views of these men, who, under the name of Democracy, will tell you they are for the largest liberty, and give a practical illustration of their creed, by exposing for sale myriads of human beings, whom God, in his wisdom, has seen fit to clothe in "the shadowed livery of the burning sun," and for this reason alone must they be exposed for sale in the public marts of the most civilized southern cities.—Eternal disgrace will fall upon us, if we do not support a man who endeavors to blot out from our adopted country the foul stain of slavery, which prevents her from taking that elevated position among the nations of the earth she would otherwise assume.

Let us, by our vote for Mr. Durkee, show that we are deserving of our adopted country, and that we can appreciate his services in the cause of humanity.

Will it lessen him in your minds that a certain clique has not thought proper to nominate him? Rather let that circumstance tend to raise him in your estimation, that a man can be found with sufficient moral courage to stand out boldly for the suffrages of the people untrammeled by party, and uncontrolled by any other influence than his own honest convictions.

Remember too, that when the famine raged in our unfortunate country, he contributed largely to relieve our perishing countrymen; and when in '48 an armed effort was made to wrest the Island from the grasp of England, to aid the noble cause, he laid down one hundred dollars, offering at the same time to pay that sum monthly as long as the struggle continued.

Almost every Irishman in this city has been at one time or another indebted to his kindness. He has encouraged them to stop here, and both by acts and advice he has always been their consistent friend, to which they are all willing to bear testimony.

Among the many generous qualities of the mind possessed by Irishmen, Gratitude stands foremost. Then let us, by our unanimous vote for Mr. Durkee, show, that we still possess this virtue, and that our high sense of his merits in a public and private capacity, will raise us above the influences of a party who would make use of us for their own interested purposes.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Elmore at a Discount in his own County.

WAUKESHA, Oct. 21, 1850.

Friend Booth: The Democratic County Convention met at Waukesha, the 19th inst., and made choice of George Hyer, for Senator, with great unanimity, and D. Casey for Sheriff, after a close fight.

After the nominations had been made, a Resolution to endorse the Rochester nomination, created a great stir. Elmore was on the ground, and made three speeches. The ayes and noes having been called, after one or two hours loud talk, the result was as follows: Ayes 23; Noes 18; absent, or not voting, 7. So you see that Elmore's own County did not sustain him, as 25 votes were necessary for a majority. This is a severe cut. PASS IT ROUND. John S. Rockwell, Chairman of the Delegates, Joseph Turner, Esq., with other influential Democrats, voted NAY.

Yours, respectfully,

WAUKESHA.

A candidate must be in bad odor with his party, and justly so, when a Convention of his own County, so long a time after his nomination, votes so strongly against ratifying his nomination. Such a thing was never before heard of in the Democratic party. The men who voted against him in this Convention, will vote against him at the ballot-box. Mark that!

MR. DURKEE IN WALWORTH COUNTY.—The Elkhorn Star of the 18th inst., says:

"Hon. CHARLES DURKEE addressed the people of Elkhorn on the evening of Tuesday last and gave an account of his stewardship during the long and exciting session of Congress. He was greeted with great enthusiasm, and that did not appear to be confined to any particular party. He is emphatically the people's man and his election cannot be claimed as a party triumph, but will be a good test of the prevalence of that all pervading free soil sentiment of the district and of the approval by the people of the independent course which Mr. Durkee has pursued in Congress. If he is not elected by a larger majority than ever any man has been in the District we cannot calculate upon popular sentiment.

☞ There is a general "coalition" of the People in favor of the re-election of Mr. Durkee. The Wisconsin and Advertiser, with a few wire-pullers, who make politics a trade, are very much displeased at the People's movement, and are still in favor of Mr. Elmore, the Scatteration candidate, who will probably receive most of the scattering votes.

☞ Alexander McCarty was sentenced by Judge Stow, Oct. 12th, to be hung, for the murder of Adolphus Vanderburgh, on such a day as the Governor shall appoint.

☞ Beriah Brown, editor of the Madison Democrat, has been indicted, by the Grand Jury of Dane County, for a libel on H. A. Tenny, one of the editors of the Madison Argus.

☞ John L. Doran is the Democratic candidate for Assembly in the 3d Ward, and will undoubtedly be chosen.

T. G. Osborn is the Democratic candidate for Granville, Milwaukee, and Wauwatosa District. Clark Brookins is the Whig candidate.

☞ The North Oxford [Mass.] Cotton Factory was destroyed by fire on Monday night. Loss $35,000. Insured for $10,000 at Worcester Mutual, $10,000 at Providence Manufacturers', and $5,000 at Rhode Island Mutual.

☞ The Texas papers complain of a great drought in that State. There had been no rain at Galveston for two months. The cotton crop will not exceed half an average yield. The sugar crop will be unusually large.

☞ The first ticket for Jenny Lind's Concert in Philadelphia, was bid off at $625. Providence yet contains the true "Man of Ross."

☞ Despatches have been received from Sir John Ross, that some straggling Esquimaux had reported to him that in the winter of 1846, two ships were wrecked near Cape Dudley Diggl, and afterwards burned by some fierce tribes of nations, that the survivors from the wreck, without means of defense were afterwards murdered by the same tribes The description of the unfortunate crew was such as to confirm the harrowing suspicion that these were the vessels of Sir John Franklin. Whether there is any truth in the reports is a question.

The leading idea of the system adopted by this Company, is, to ascertain precisely what it is worth to insure a given amount upon a life for a certain time, and to charge precisely that sum, and no more: it is attended with none of those vexatious contingencies which are inseparable from the mutual system—it has nothing to do with scrip dividends or bonuses, the declaration of which upon true and equitable principles, is attended with so much difficulty and perplexity—it is perfectly simple, as well as uniform and equal in all its operations.

The promptness, fairness and liberality which have marked all the dealings of this Company, for a period of thirty years, and the well known character of its officers and directors, afford the surest guaranty that its affairs will be so managed as to afford to the assured that ultimate safety and security which is of first importance in Life Assurance.

Policies will be granted payable after death, or upon the party's arriving at a specified age, at his option; in either case, free from the claims of creditors The usual extra risks will be assumed by this Company at reasonable rates.

☞ Bridget Kerevan, a story by Anna Dyral, on our first page.

WHERE LIES THE EVIL?

Our last Congress passed acts which would for recklessness, injustice and inhumanity have disgraced the most abject nation of earth and which are a burning stigma on the fame of our republic, that years cannot efface, as for instance the $10,000,000, Texas bounty, and the Fugitive Slave Bill. When Congress first assembled there were perhaps not 10 among the whole Northern members, but would have rejected with scorn and indignation, any proposition to induce them to vote for such measures: and yet it was through their instrumentality finally, that these measures became laws and now disgrace our land. How was this accomplished? To us it is as clear as noonday, and we will explain it.

Mr. Elmore has been nominated for Congress in this district by the Convention of a party claiming to be of the great national Democratic party—and he is now before the people solely through the instrumentality of that organization. He is by no means a man whom the people would select as their representative. As an independent candidate he would not have strength enough to excite even a moment's attention from any person.—He is then, not the candidate of the people, but the candidate of this machinery, and if he is elected it will be solely through the power and potency of this machinery. To whom then does he owe fealty? Not to the people, for he is not their candidate, but to this machinery organization. He goes to Washington full of a determination to carry out the wishes of the people, who, obeying the dictates of this organization, elected him. But when he gets there, he finds, that in virtue of the power which put him up and elected him, he is as much the representative of South Carolina as he is of Wisconsin. The "party" elected him and he is one of "the party," and he is called on at once to choose between the "people" and the "party." Naturally, he decides in favor of that power, through which alone he got to Washington, and he goes in to sustain the "party organization." The south says you must do so and so, or the party will be dissolved. Well, says Mr. Elmore, it won't do to have the party dissolved, for it was solely through the party organization that I got where I am, or have any hopes of a return; therefore, to sustain the organization all these wrongs are perpetrated. This is the whole secret of the treachery of northern members. Really they were not treacherous—they were elected not for their merits, but by the "party," and of course their first duty was to sustain the party. The party demanded the fugitive slave bill—it demanded 10,000,000 for Texas—and these men walked up deliberately and voted it, at the dictate of the "party."

Now our whole safety consists in having a ruler who is subjected to no such influence. Party is truly all the democrats who were elected to the present Congress made just as violent professions of devotion to Free Soil principles as did the Free Soilers themselves, and yet three out of ten of them betrayed their constituents, while not one of the Free Soilers did. Is the reason not as plain as day.—The democrats owed just as much allegiance to South Carolina as to their own state—and were elected at the dictation of South Carolina. The Free Soilers professed no such allegiance and were honest, and represented their own people.

Mr. Elmore is the candidate of an organization which South Carolina has just as much right to as Wisconsin. Mr. Durkee is the candidate only of the people of this district, and not their people or power. Choose then, Democracy, between South Carolina democracy and Wisconsin democracy. We take the latter.—Democrat Telegraph.

The war in the Duchies has been renewed with considerable vigor. The Holsteiners have the advantage thus far, but without bringing about any important result.

A Hurricane.—A tremendous gale passed over this place on Wednesday the 16th doing considerable damage—blowed off some roofs, turned over hen roosts and back houses, broke windows turned up trees &c. It demolished some of the product of the hard work which we had been doing for the previous two weeks. We had just finished the mason work of a small brick building which remained without the roof. The wind blowed down one of the gable ends, together with the wall several feet below.

It blew off a new frame, belonging to Mr. Henry Bradley, from the foundation, which was brick, and demolished with the movement of the frame, together with sundry other freaks of like character. We are told also that when the gale struck the Court House the Court being in session, a regular stampede took place, and established a precedent of a new and summary mode of adjourning the court without proclamation by the sheriff.—Elkhorn Star.

—The President has officially recognised Philippe Jacques Fraus, of the canton of Berne, as consul of the Swiss Confederation for Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota, to reside at Detroit.

Also, J. B. Fah, of the canton of St. Gall, as consul of the same confederation for Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee and Arkansas, to reside at New Orleans.

Baltimore, Oct. 16th.

The Savannah Republican has assurances from 15 counties in the great cotton growing sections of the State, that staunch Union delegates to the State convention will be elected in each.

The Virginia Reform convention yesterday elected Judge Mason President of that body.

Sales of Pews.—The pews of Calvary Church, New York, Rev. Dr. Hawks', new charge, were sold at auction on Wednesday. Eighty-seven pews were sold at premiums varying from $300 to $500; only a few were sold at par.

Dr. Hawks is of negro descent, and has, a brother who was a slave.

—Mr. Orrin Vaughn, of Williamantic, a brakeman on the Hartford and Williamantic road, was killed on thursday. He was standing on the top of a car, when the train passed through a top bridge in Scotland, and his head coming in contact with the timber, was crushed in a frightful manner.

—An attempt was made in Hartford on Saturday evening, by some doughfaces, to hold a meeting in defence of the Fugitive Slave bill. It broke up in a row.

—The convention to re-model the state constitution of Virginia assembled in Richmond, Oct. 15th.

—Among the prizes offered this year by the Cincinnati Art-Union is the Greek Slave of Powers, which, we believe, is the most valuable work of art ever put up for distribution in this way.

Choked to Death.—A man named John Nolan, died suddenly, in Hartford, Conn., on Wednesday. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict that he came to his death by being choked while eating, having been strangled by a piece of pork.

Population.—Erie, Pa., 5.850; Lafayette, In., 6,528; Williamsburg, L. I., 30,886; Utica, N. Y., 17,558; Portland, Me., 21,900; Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 11,080; Patterson, N. J., 11,320; Danbury, Ct., 5,963; Cleveland, 17,600; Charlestown, Mass., 17,206; Lowell, 33,000.

—Two men half seas over, carried home one totally corned. One of the two said to the wife of the man they had brought home.—"Madam, shall we stay and assist you?"—"No," she replied, "one drunken man is as much as I can manage."

BY TELEGRAPH.

BY SPEED'S LINE.

Special Despatch, for the Democrat.

Kenosha, Oct. 22.

The old line Democracy, not liking the nominations made by the regular party conventions in this county, are moving for new nominations. A call for a mass Democratic Convention is now in circulation. There will probably be a complete Hunker ticket nominated.

Gen. Dodge is now here, receiving the calls of his fellow citizens, whose confidence he enjoys to no slight extent, and deservedly so. As a mark of respect, and an evidence of satisfaction in regard to his course as Senator, our city council, at their meeting last evening, resolved to make the old veteran a call, which was accordingly done. The General will leave here at noon to-day, on his way home, from which he has been absent about two years.

☞G. P. R. James, Novelist, Historian, and Lecturer, has "declared intentions" to become a citizen of the United States.

The Whig Congressional Convention.

It will be perceived, by a reference to the proceedings of this body, that they separated without making another nomination. There was a fair representation present from every county in the District but Kenosha, and the utmost harmony and good feeling prevailed. Although the Convention did not endorse Mr. Durkee by any formal vote or resolution, yet there was an enthusiastic expression from every delegate, that their fellow Whigs be requested to use every means in their power to permit Mr. Elmore to stay at home and that the best and only method to secured this desirable end, was to give Mr. Durkee a cordial support.

In accordance with this determination of the Convention, and believing it to be the general sentiment of the Whigs of the District, we hoist the name of Charles Durkee, as an independent candidate for Congress, and have no doubt that the people will teach trading and shuffling politicians a lesson that they will long remember, by defeating Mr. Elmore and triumphly electing Mr. Durkee.—Sentinel.

The Fugitive Slave Law.—The (N. Y.) Independent, a religious paper of the highest character, says:

"The law cannot be executed. The case which has recently occurred under it in this city, and of which a more particular account will be found elsewhere; makes nothing against the remark. It was not known till it was consummated. The man was inveigled by craft into the power of his enemies. His surrender was effected before his friends, or the community were apprized of his danger; and his wife, it is said, was still expecting his return when he, having been captured—not as of old from a savage coast by a recognized pirate, but from the midst of this civilized and Christian city, by Messrs. Clare and Gardiner—was far on his way to bondage. There may be other cases like this, in this city and elsewhere. For there is scarcely anything so criminal that men cannot be found to do it for money. And the successful stealer of a MAN, from freedom and his family, can afford to pay something for his thews and sinews. But in the aggregate, as a law affecting society at large, and designed to be operative throughout the North, we are more than ever satisfied that the law cannot be executed.

The Fugitive Slave Law, at Mr. Filmore's Residence.—The Buffalo Express says, that a person in pursuit of fugitive slaves, met a colored woman in the streets of that city, and began to interrogate her concerning her claim to freedom. As his inquiries became pressing, she drew a revolver which cause him to retreat. The same paper says that most of the fugitive slaves in that city are armed.

THE EMIGRANT:

A Weekly Paper to be published in Milwaukee, on Saturday, the first week of December, 1850, and every succeeding Saturday.

☞Terms—$3 00 per annum, quarterly in advance.

To those who behold—every year—thousands of toiling and industrious human beings, coming to seek a home, and a shelter, far from the land of their childhood, in this American Republic, it may not appear strange that a man, (an Irish Emigrant himself,) should think of establishing a newspaper, devoted, in some measure, to the instruction and guidance of his fellows—a directory, as it were, to the stranger, in fixing on a set principle of action, suited alike to all grades and all callings—cautioning the unwary and unitiated, against the numerous snares and many pitfalls, that are constantly laid in their innocent way, (by the designing and cruel-hearted,) in which they lose their property, their peace of mind, and often times their health, never, never, (perhaps with few exceptions,) to recover those pecuniary losses, or their former happiness.

The public are aware how many aspersions our old countrymen are subjected to, (sometimes deserved, but oftener not—intoxication, quarreling, and theft being the principal accusations in the calendar of crimes,) but it must be acknowledged that those misfortunes befall us from the want of some kind monitor—some trustworthy friend, to keep us in the right way, and guide our steps through the mazes of danger and vice, into which the young and unguarded fall, without knowing when that danger is at hand, or how to avoid it.

To bring the settler then to a just level with the native citizen, in every department, will be the proudest task of the Editor, and if the success of the undertaking be only partial for a time, still, with a little encouragement from the people, the laborer will be excited to greater action, and renewed perseverance, disclaiming [in toto] all party politics, at the same time exposing injustice and unmasking fraud, infamy, and deceit, too commonly practiced in a new country.

The increasing poverty of Ireland, and other European countries, [accompanied, alas! this harvest, with the failure of the wheat and potatoe crop,] must drive half a million more, next spring, to the friendly shores of this continent, and therefore, it is more than ever necessary, that our brethren should have reliable information and unprejudiced advice in a public print.

The hardy and bold man from the Mountains of Kerry—the plodding, sober-minded, of the rich fields of Limerick or Meath—the industrious artizan of Manchester or Birmingham—the rough, healthy-looking farmer of Leicester or Norfolk—the far-off Highlander of Caithness, or the more refined Southerner from Clyde Dale, may all profit alike by some organ suited to their taster, yet drawing them still closer, in heart and mind, to the interests and welfare of their adopted nation.

We close this notice with a hope that this publication will obtain a fair patronage, from all classes, [the people of Wisconsin in particular,] and with the assurance that our motto shall be—"The truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth!" oct19-dtd

Dr D trusts that a long experience in both the Allopathic and Homœopathic schools of medicine, untiring devotion to the science and practice of his profession, and a success which few will venture to say will justify and perpetuate the generous confidence which has been hitherto awarded to him by so large and respectable number of the citizens of Milwaukee Sept 16, 1850 d1c11

CHICAGO
BRASS & BELL FOUNDRY.

H. W. RINCKER,
No 195 Randolph street, Chicago Also on Canal street opposite Foss's Planing Mill

THE Proprietor of this establishment is now prepared to cast BELLS of all sizes. He would particularly invite those who wish to purchase Church Bells to those of his manufacture. His Bells will be sold on as reasonable terms as they can be purchased from the east, or from agents of eastern establishments. They will be sold cheaper, in fact, because he can make as good a Bell, that will give as large a volume of sound, as those of eastern manufacture, with one-fourth less weight of metal, and this proportion of money is thus saved in the purchase of his bells. He warrants them not to break for one year with proper usage, and should one fail or not prove to be as good as represented, it may be returned to his shop and be made good without expense to the purchaser, by a re-cast; or be replaced by a new one. If one should break at any time during his life, he will re-cast it or half the expense of casting. Western people will see the advantage in dealing with a western man, and patronizing western interests.

Mr Rincker is a German, a bell-founder by profession, and he is convinced that he thoroughly understands his business

He will cast bells to any tone or key that may be desired He can also cast his bells to chime in harmony Heretofore the chiming bells used in this country have been brought from Europe, but he is able to make them as correct and musical in tone as any that may be imported

His bells have taken the premiums at the two last Fairs of the Chicago Mechanics Institute—the last Fair awarding him a Gold Medal. The following is a copy of the Report of the Committee on the Bells submitted for inspection in the Fair of May, 1850:

Article H, Class No 6, Church Bells.

A bell of 740 lbs by Mr. H W. Rincker, of this city, well made and a smooth casting. It exhibits a great deal of skill in its manufacture; has an admirable tone, and throws a greater volume of sound than any bell with which we are acquainted of its size. A trial was had between the above bell and one manufactured by Mr. Meneely of Troy, N. Y., the latter being considerable heavier of the two, [955 lbs] The arrangement for ringing Mr Rincker's bell was temporary, and by far inferior to that of Mr. Meneely's, notwithstanding which we believe that there was but little difference in the distance that the two bells could be heard and that the tone of Mr. Rincker's bell was by far the most pleasing to the ear. A Gold Medal was awarded to Mr Rincker.

The above is a true copy of the Report.

G R. SLOAT,
Secretary of the Board of Directors of Chicago Mechanics' Institute.

H W RINCKER is also prepared to do all kinds of BRASS WORK CASTING and FINISHING, on short notice and in good style; such as Machinery, Magnetic Machines, Physical Instruments, Soda Fountains, Beer Pumps, Stop-Cocks, Oil Globes, &c. Also heavy Copper Work, for all purposes.

Old Brass and Copper purchased, and taken in exchange for bells at the market price.

ever before offered for sale in this city, and at prices never heard of, but will be sure to reach the purse of the purchaser. To give a full list of articles which the stock consists of would be a

Monopoly of News Prints,

which is against the creed of this old store; therefore it must suffice to say that it consists of every thing that is necessary for the practising physician, or any family in need of medicine; the Surgeon, the Painter, the Glazier, or Dyer: besides all the popular which are known and in use Also a great variety of SWEETMEATS and EXTRACTS, for cooking, &c.

The proprietor of this extensive establishment does freely acknowledge that he likes a good round profit as well as any other living man, but avarice stepping aside, gives place to common sense, and says this stock of Goods must be sold, for cash, as low as at any other Drug Store in the city. And 335 Third st., 2d Ward, old stand,
Milwaukee, - - - Wisconsin.

HENRY NIEDECKEN,

A PRACTICAL BOOK-BINDER of long experience, in all its branches, would most respectfully inform the citizens of Milwaukee and the surrounding country, that he is prepared to bind any description of Books, being possessed of the best gilding and finishing tools, and keeping constantly on hand the first quality of binding material. He has found it necessary, by reason of increasing business, (consequent upon his low price and superior quality of work and materials,) to open another for the convenience of his "down town" friends, at the above mentioned place, where he will be happy to see his old customers and as many new ones as will favor him with their patronage.

Blank Books for banks, merchants, county clerks, recorders, auditors, treasurers, school commissioners, magistrates, insurance offices, &c, manufactured in the best manner, which in elegance, durability, and superiority of style and finish, will not be surpassed by any eastern manufacturer. In all his large blank books, he uses the improved patent mode of sewing, which gives strength, with great elasticity, and is incomparably superior to any other method for blank books, and will keep the leaves firm and solid while the book lasts, instead of coming to pieces, as is often the case with all other methods. No additional charge is made for this improvement.

Machine Ruling.—Ruling of every description, for blank books, tax lists, &c, neatly and promptly executed.

Fancy Articles.—He is also prepared to make all kinds of fancy articles, such as ladies' and gentlemen's portfolios, caskets, card, spectacle and segar cases, pocket books, &c, with neatness and despatch.

Ruled Music Paper.—He will also keep on hand a supply of blank paper ruled for manuscript music, which he can sell at so low a price that it will be a great saving of time, labor and money, to buy this all ruled and ready for writing the music

Albums, Magazines, Music Books, &c, will be bound with the greatest care, and in a neat and elegant style, to which the attention of the ladies is most particularly invited.

Bibles, Hymn, Prayer and School Books, are constantly kept on hand, as also

STATIONERY, of all kinds, such as writing paper, ink, quills, steel pens, sealing wax, slates, writing books, and waters, and a variety of books too numerous to mention.

GILT PICTURE FRAMES.

He is also in constant receipt, (imported direct from Germany by himself,) of a superior article of gilt frames, of all sizes, which he will sell at prices which cannot fail of suiting purchasers. He will be happy to show his goods and style of work to all who will favor him with a call, as he is confident that he can please every variety of taste. By good work and honest dealing, he expects to gain the patronage of the citizens of Milwaukee and the surrounding country oct12 d21
